STUPID SILLY SOUR

No Belgian brewery has embraced America's love for pushing the boundaries more than Brasserie De Silly.

The brewers thought it would be funny to see the faces of a group of Americans after sampling their pure sour ale. They were shocked when the guests lit up with excitement.

Formally used solely for the purpose of blending into their Saison and Silly Sour, Stupid Silly Sour has extreme green apple sour notes and subtle hints of brown sugar and biscuit malt.

Where most Belgian brewers would show restraint, Brasserie De Silly is dedicated to giving America what it wants...even if it's a little Stupid.
